

Business Acumen Network Profile

Network Location

Alameda County, CA

Network Name

Alameda County Aging & Disability Resource Connection

Network Structure Type

The Alameda County Aging & Disability Resource Connection (ACADRC) is an information coalition. The three core partners, Alameda County Area Agency on Aging (AAA), Community Resources for Independent Living (CRIL), and Center for Independent Living (CIL) established an MOU for the purpose of submitting an application for designation as an ADRC. The AAA contracts with approximately 40 organizations.

Contract Prospects

We do not have specific organizations targeted, however the County has multiple health plans and health organizations.

Potential Target Population

We are new to the project and need help determining the targeted population.

Potential Service(s) and/or Service Package

We have discussed the following potential services:

- Meals
- Care transitions
- Evidenced based preventative programs

Network Partners

The ACADRC has a number of core partners. For the purpose of this project, the following organizations are participating:

- Alameda County Area Agency on Aging
- Community Resources for Independent Living
- Center for Independent Living
- Eden I & R
- City of Fremont
- Senior Support Program of the Tri-Valley
- Life ElderCare
